

Pizza Roll-Ups

I know you have seen these on Pinterest, right? Whoever decided to put all of these things in crescent rolls was a genius!

I was in a “rut” with making the twins lunch the other day and saw I had all of the ingredients for these. We made them and we LOVED them!!

I didn't go by any recipes or anything because I've seen so many pictures. I figured it couldn't be that hard!

Ingredients:

- 1 can of crescent rolls
- String cheese
- pepperoni
- marinara

I laid the crescent rolls down on a cookie sheet and used a spoon to put a little marinara on them. Then I put two pieces of pepperoni on each roll (you could definitely add more/less/none). I cut one roll of string cheese into four pieces and it fit perfect. Put cheese on top of pepperoni and roll up! I had to pinch the sides a bit so the cheese and marinara wouldn't spill out. I put them into a 350 degree oven for about 20-30 minutes. Just watch them until they turn slightly brown and don't look “doughy” anymore.

They were a huge hit with the twins and I have to admit that I loved them too! They would probably be a great party appetizer too! I cant wait to make them again!
